TAKE NOTICE,

THAT I am to be sold on such terms, that the purchaser need not advance any cash, unless he pleases, till it is earned by my services, provided no accident happens me; or, if you please, I am to be farmed out for two years, and not less. I am a bright bay, full 15½ hands high, of noble descent, my name is TRIMMER—I was got by Hall's imported horse Eclipse, my dam, purchased by Doctor Hall, was got by the imported horse Slim; my grand dam was got by Old Figure, my great grand dam by Taskers Othello out of Selima, &c. &c. as will more fully appear by William Lyle's attested certificate who raised me. My character as a racer is well established; I won the colt's purse at Bladensburg of twenty guineas; I won a fifty guinea purse at Baltimore, a fifty guinea purse at Annapolis and a fifty guinea purse at Hagerstown. I never lost a race but the last I run at Alexandria, which was owning to my being badly shod, as I lost all my plates before I got in. I am in fine plight, sound in every respect; my offspring are in great repute, some of which are now in training for the turf—procure me good stands and entertainment and I am able to earn one thousand dollars per annum.

Any person inclining to buy or rent may know the terms by applying to John Carnan (Lovehall) Cecil county and state of Maryland, eight miles south of Elkton.

The Gazette.

PHILADELPHIA,

THURSDAY EVENING, MARCH 7.

For the GAZETTE of the UNITED STATES.

In colours neither too feint, nor yet too glaring; but that each may know his neighbour or himself—that they may be held up to mankind as political Buoys, to shew where lie the Quicksands of Sedition:—

WITH this view I beg leave to submit to you, Mr. Fenno, some further observations, relative to the proceedings of our would-be government reformers, in the county of Montgomery. At a meeting of their committee, held on the 12th ultimo, it appears that one part of the business brought before them, was, to prepare a remonstrance against the Alien and Sedition bills, as elsewhere hinted at, and to appoint their agents to go forth and endeavour to obtain signatures thereto. After much deliberation, altercation and some rejections, a form was adopted, which we will take notice of another time. In appointing their emissaries, they were steady to their first purpose—by choosing such persons as will make it their sole employ to dupe the ignorant and unwary, as to the real object of the two bills in question. Here again we find Capt. John advanced to the rank of chief agent, or remonstrance bearer, as a reward for his former services and indefatigability. I must crave your indulgence, Mr. Editor, that I may make you better acquainted with this forward character. As a justification of his criminal conduct, he denies that he was a United Irishman, and says that the term was but barely in existence when he abandoned Ireland; but confesses that he commanded a company of Irish volunteers. I leave it to those who are better acquainted with the meaning of these terms, to say wherein consists the true difference, when the captain was compelled to expatriate himself for good behaviour, and now warmly attaches himself to their infamous horde. He further justifies his officiousness, by saying, that altho' he has not sworn allegiance to our constitution and laws, yet he is in possession of a written citizenship. If this is true, it serves more than volumes of conjecture on the subject, to shew us what knaves there must be somewhere in commission, who would neglect so important a part of American initiation. It unveils a possible scene of villainy, of secret treachery, the extent of which is not to be calculated! If he is actually possessed of so valuable a paper, no doubt it is for the purpose of decoying uninformed citizens into measures extremely prejudicial to government and their own interest. I cannot pass over this circumstance, without suggesting to those whom it may concern, the propriety of not only faithfully fulfilling this important trust; but of guarding against another species of fraud which I well know is common among foreigners engaged in mercantile employ—that of giving or selling their citizenships to persons of different names. Hence occurs in part the cause of frequent delays and distress that our merchantmen are subject to, from the citizenships of the people not corresponding with the names on the ship's role. In one crew which came under my notice, the mate and two hands were in this predicament. You no doubt will perceive, Mr. Editor, how easily this deception may be practised among us, to the great danger of public safety.

But to return—Captain John does not deny but that he has been and is still much concerned for the effect of the foregoing laws—What then—he says we have nought but the "ruff scuff" of Ireland here, and why, dear, may not a man of my consequence make himself known—Yes, Captain, you shall be known—Fate has decreed it. But you appear to prevaricate with yourself—A few months ago, when an address from the most respectable inhabitants of the county, expressive of the great satisfaction they received from, and the unlimited confidence they placed in the wise and firm proceedings of our worthy President against the sons of violence and rapine, was handed to you for your signature, you declined giving it, and with your refusal, you added, "I am an alien, it would be very improper for me to appear on this occasion." And why not as improper on the present? Are you more entitled to the privileges of an American citizen by being a member of an officious committee, chosen by a turbulent body of men, the chief of whom are aliens and all unfriendly to our government—forgetful of the country which has long nourished and protected them, they basely assist in promoting the cause of her enemies? Are you more an American by assiduously poisoning the minds of those, whose misfortune it is, that they are not able to detect you in your dirty business of inveighing against certain laws, which were made so aptly to suit your case, that it is only necessary to read them to think of you? Are you more an American by harassing well-disposed citizens to sign a paper which you call a remonstrance against the above laws—laws made for such as you, and not for them?

The frequent repulses which you have met with on this head from those who approbate these measures, your assistants in duplicity and counsellors in sedition, Mr. Last and Mr. Slithead, can fully vouch for and no doubt will condole with you on the occasion, as it behooves near neighbours and fellow labourers. Are you more an American by obtaining the signatures of men truly the "ruff scuff" of Ireland:—Men whose every action arises from the impulse of ignorance—in a word, are you more an American by adding your own name to the wretched catalogue?

Believe one whose country is America, that these various tricks will not avail you towards forming a character which you were never intended for. The genius of a true American soars to every thing noble; of a seditious Irishman to meanness. The American disposition delights in uprightness and every species of ingeniousness; the out-cast Irishman in injustice and every species of low deception. The American uses every effort to promote the welfare of his country, and especially to support the laws and constituted authorities; the abandoned Irishman's chief pride, is to destroy his country's dearest rights, to trample down her laws, and overturn all legal power—ferocious by nature, licentious by inclination; no laws divine or human, will deter the one, or restrain the other—Lay these characteristics seriously to heart; they are such as experience will confirm; and say whether you think it possible that you can become an American, by the practice of those arts which now hail you chief of a faction.

When you fled from the hand of insulted justice, and hither shaped your course, did you not find a friendly habitation on our hospitable shore? an outcast from that country, which, by your behaviour you had forfeited, were you not protected by our laws, equally with our best citizens? nay, though unworthy, are you not even now, both in person and property shielded from violence and insult, by the very laws which you are daily proving yourself an enemy to? Wherefore is it that you thus act? Are you ambitious of fame,—so was Wolf, Tone, so was Holt, countrymen and heroes in this self same cause, sedition and rebellion. These, you know, have received the reward which Fame long kept in store for them.—Now, from the fate of these and several others of the same stamp well known to you, it does not require the spirit of divination to prejudge what awaits yourself in this country, if you continue to act in the present officious character.

How dare you arrogate to yourself the privilege of judging of the policy or impolicy of the measures of our administration? You who have spurned at our blessings, dare you censure us for receiving them? Who made you a judge over the interest of the people of America? Impertinent intruder, naught but ignorance and villainy can support this astonishing effrontery.

If our laws do not harmonize with your turbulent ideas, leave the country, and do not give administration the trouble of constraining you to this measure. Though there are Americans among us, whose perverseness, not to say stupidity, prevents their perceiving the utility of those most excellent laws to which you are particularly obnoxious, suffer them to remain for that conviction which eventually they will receive from their countrymen, unaided by a meddling alien Irishman.

For the present I will pause, that you may determine as to your future conduct; but will just observe that you are not to suppose yourself of sufficient consequence to have employed my pen thus long; although you are the most notorious, yet there are others, whose actions bespeak them not less criminal—to these many of my remarks are extremely pertinent; and if they do not take the trouble to apply them to their future benefit, I will address them more particularly. Among these, however, it is now my duty to notice three who have evinced themselves extremely forward in running counter to our laws, and that duty, which each, as Americans by birth, or by residence, owe this country.

The first is one who wears his eye thus ( ) as it were, turned inward, questioning whether all is well within, and perhaps not without cause. If to preside at a meeting of alien Irishmen and apostate Americans, whose business is to retard the operations of our government, whose utmost wish is to realize the scenes of cruelty and confusion which a great part of Europe has lately experienced, be an honor, then are you an honorable man. If to use your influence to decoy those citizens, whose simplicity marks them as proper objects for designing knaves, and thus cause them to despise that authority which it is their chief advantage to uphold, be an honor, then are you an honorable man. If to place your signature upon the same list with "the draught of dungeons and the stench of stews" be an honor, then are you an honorable man. "But great men are not always wise; neither do the aged understand judgment." Therefore I who am a simple citizen and never expect, nay do not wish to enjoy an office from the governor of the state, or from an unruly mob, do most heartily thank my God, that he has endued me with a more praise-worthy ambition, than that of caressing or being caressed by a banditti—that of supporting, by every effort in my power, a government which has secured me from violence and oppression, from infancy up to manhood. But you who are now old in error, have long since swerved from the path of rectitude, delineated by your father who was an American. To appear also to have forgotten that you once had a brother, whose attachment to his native country caused him to exclaim "oh that nature would raise her everlasting bars between the new and the old world:" vain wish, yet it serves to prove him a friend by anticipation to those measures, which the interest of our country has since warranted the promulgation of, and which you, to gain the applause of a band of worthless disorganizers, or from some worse motive, have shewn yourself forward in disapprobating. Consider that your age, your birth, (as an American) require that you should resist the advances of the many headed monster faction—but above all, reflect how shameful it is, for one who is placed above the people to restrain the licentious and to administer impartial justice, to appear as President of a meeting of the most unruly among us—of those who hold the laws of the country in utter contempt. I would ask you, as an American citizen in what one respect are you interested in the operation of the alien bill, except so far as it tends to the advantage of your native land. True you are nearly connected with a turbulent hibernian (who as else where noticed has felt the lash of our legislative government) but this fellow calls himself an American citizen; wherefore then are you affected. I know "lowlineſs is yoursambition's ladder;" but then a truly virtuous American ſhould curſe the wretch who would wiſh to aſcend by ſuch filthy means.

As to the ſedition bill, it is your indiſpenſable duty to enforce it, as you know (or ought to know) that it is but a ſummary of part of the common law; but as you have evinced yourſelf equally obnoxious to this with the above, it is more than probable, that a wiſh to countenance that eternal babbler, whoſe every breath is defamation, not unfrequently preponderates againſt duty and propriety.

Look well to your way—theſe are times which require wary walking—Hitherto the avenging genius of Columbia's wrongs has ſlept: but e'er long he will awake and with the beſom of juſtice, will purge our land from thoſe who would ſap the foundation of her government and raiſe themſelves on its ruins—In truth,

"I laugh to think how your unſhaken Cato
"Will look aghaſt, when unforeſeen deſtruction
"Pours in upon him thus."———

That the body politic may be diſeaſed as well as the human frame, is true: but that a phyſician, whoſe duty is to adminiſter reſtoratives to the latter, ſhould ſo far neglect his profeſſion as to encourage by every poſſible mean, the increaſe of the former, is not ſo eaſily accounted for; unleſs fortune has ſo frequently jilted his practice, that

New ways he muſt attempt, his grovelling name
To raiſe aloft, and damn himſelf to fame.

To you, Mr. Quiet——, who have ſo far degraded the American character, as to become a remonſtrance-drafter to and a member of a committee of nuiſance, to you I have a few words to ſay. Wherefore is it, that you have become ſubſervient to the wiſhes and meaſures of thoſe reſtleſs monſters, whom to be hated need only to be ſeen? Are you at length convinced that it requires knowledge and judgment to form a man of ſcience, and that any ignoramus may become a political knaves. Take care—a quack in medicine may eſcape merited puniſhment though he commits many profeſſional blunders, becauſe our laws are extremely deſective in this reſpect. But a quack in politics, by which I underſtand an ignorant meddling fellow, who is conſtantly declaiming againſt the moſt efficacious meaſures of government, with a view of advancing his popularity among ſuch as capt. John and his immediate followers, will ſooner or later receive that reward, which a well adminiſtered government always has in reſerve for ſuch a character.

Imagine not major that becauſe laſt, you are the leſs deſerving of attention. Fame long ſince adopted you as one of her favorite ſons, and certain old records inform me, that ſhe once made a violent effort to advance you; but malice dire fruſtrated the attempt. Again ſhe exerts herſelf and from among the motley crew points you out. It is not enough, that leaving your native land ſomewhat abruptly, you found a friendly aſylum with us. It is not enough, that from a needy cit, you ſhould be advanced to the ſeat of a magiſtrate among a free, a happy people; but you muſt now unite with your abandoned countrymen, and aſſiſt in producing ſuch commotions, as you ſuppoſe, will moſt probably tend to aggrandize yourſelf with thoſe poor wretches whom you are daily deceiving. Ungrateful monſter, as well might we attempt to tame the Hyena as to Americanize an Iriſhman. What, at leaſt fifteen years among us, protected by the laws and truſted by the people; and now among the moſt forward to fruſtrate the efforts of government at this momentous period. Methinks it would become a magiſtrate to diſcountenance all meetings for the purpoſe of circulating ſedition and confirming rebellion, rather than to encourage them by voice and deed. Nay, deny it not, it is a fact, that a rebellion pole was erected on or about the 4th inſt. not only near your dwelling, but with your knowledge and countenance. And when a worthy citizen (an American) oppoſed the infamous work, though ſurrounded by a hoſt of miſcreants, and even ventured to chaſtiſe the knave upon whoſe land the pole ſtood, you, fearful of meeting with the ſame treatment, Lyon-like, turned your back, crying, "ece ſignum," and ſlunk among the crowd.

It is ſaid, that Herſchel conceived the great idea of a new planet, while he exerciſed the humble office of a muſician to a marching regiment. Pray major, as the idea of leaving your own country certainly entered your head while performing in a ſimilar ſtation, did you ever extend the idea from changing countries, to that of aſſiſting in overturning a government. It ſtrikes me, that you are no ſtranger to this conception.

I will only treſpaſs Mr. Editor, to relate a circumſtance which has taken place among us, ſince the encouragement given to French principles by renegado Iriſh and Americans, which will fully convince the public, that your correſpondent has not written to gratify either malice or ſpleen—one of the foregoing horde (an intimate companion of the above character) who is a colonel in the militia, a magiſtrate, nay, a married man, ſtands on the docket of our court, indicted for the moſt abuſive conduct to a young woman, who refuſed to become ſubſervient to his wiſhes!—Plea—Drunkenneſs! Oh Tempora! Oh Mores!!!!

Sir. Lawrens Parſons is ſaid to have had a converſation with the Marquis Cornwallis, reſpecting the projected Union, in which his excellency avowed the intention of government to bring the meaſure into diſcuſſion, encouraged thereto by the aſſurance that it would be acceptable to the majority of the people, but adding, that if the general opinion ſhould be againſt it, the meaſure would not be perſiſted in. The Earl of Charlemont had alſo a very intereſting converſation with the Viceroy

Letters from Cork mention that a union of this kingdom with Great Britain, is ſpoken of there in every deſirable terms, as beneficial effects would accrue from ſuch a meaſure to that city.

Yeſterday morning, the noted deſperado, who called himſelf gen. O'Neil, and was at the head of the plundering gang who lately robbed the mail coaches in the counties of Kildare and Wicklow, was apprehended in bed in Drurey lane, in the ſoft embraces of a dulcinia. His courage was completely out on this occaſion, for he was in great trepidation when taken into cuſtody. The doughty gen. was convoyed to a ſecure lodging in caſtleyard, where he ſtill remains.

We are extremely ſorry to ſay, that diſturbances and nocturnal robberies ſtill continue to annoy the peaceable inhabitants of the county of Wicklow. Scarcely a night paſſes, in the vicinity of Bray, Newtwon-Mount-Kennedy, Delgany, and that quarter, without ſome outrages of this ſort being committed by a detachment of rebel banditti.

No leſs than 18 fellows have been taken up and committed to priſon by capt. Colthurſt. Extract of a letter from Baltingiaſs Dec. 13.

"Saturday being the fair day of this town, proved a melancholy one indeed. As ſeveral of the loyal inhabitants of this neighbourhood were at Stohan, between this town and Stratford, on their return home, they were purſued by a party of the rebels, who, taking advantage of the 89th regiment being under orders to march the following morning, attacked, and (I am ſorry to ſay) killed 7 of them. One, a gallant lad, named d'Macginnes a member of Capt. Saunder's corps, was purſued by them to his father's houſe and was moſt barbarouſly murdered in his mother's arms. Two ſoldiers of the 89th, who had walked a little way out of the town, were way-laid and ſhot in a moſt inhuman manner. They and the other victims were this day buried with military honours. All this happened ſo early as three or four o'clock in the evening. The night proved nearly as melancholy as the day. The rebels went to the houſe of Mr. Wilſon, who is ſerjeant in Mr. Saunder's corps, deſtroyed every thing of value in his houſe, and, in the wantonneſs of miſchief, cut the throats of all his fowl, ſcattered about all his flower, tea, and ſugar on the floor, mixed with glaſs, and trampled it under their feet, to prevent it from being of any uſe.

Laſt night they went to Stephen Wilſon's, of Barronſtown, burnt his houſe to the ground and deſtroyed his haggart, which was worth upwards of 400l. and were then proceeding to his brother's, when a party of the dragoons quartered at Timolin, came on them and obliged them to retreat. Captain Ryves, Gen. Dundas's aid aid-de-camp, was yeſterday fired at from behind a hedge.—Capt. Saunders and two other gentlemen, riding near the Glen of Amali, were ſome days ago fired at behind a hedge, but received no injury. In ſhort, there is ſcarce a day or night paſſes that we do not hear of ſome murder or robbery being committed."

Appointment—by the Governor.

Peter Baynton, Adjutant General of the Militia of Pennſylvania, vice Joſiah Harmer, reſigned.

The reſult of ſeveral calculations made by different gentlemen, from various parts of the State, leaves a vaſt majority of votes in favor of Mr. Roſs, the Federal candidate for the ſupreme Magiſtracy of the State. It is to be hoped, however, that inſtead of being lulled by a confidence in this reſult, into ſecurity and inactivity, that the perſuaſion will animate every man to greater exertions on the account. The circumſtance of Thomas M'Kean being a canditate for the Governorſhip, ought not a ſingle moment to be out of mind, from this hour to the day of election.

A peculiar fortune, which has ſo often waited on this country, ſeems ſtill to watch over her; the capture of the French frigate by the gallant Truxton and his brave Tars, the diſcovery of the ſcheme of the Directory for exciting a rebellion amongſt the blacks, in South Carolina and Georgia, ſeem to have rouſed the drooping ſpirits of the people, and to have united all friends of government in one common view. The perfidy of the Directory, in thus ſeeking the utter ruin of our ſouthern ſtates, at the ſame time that they are inſidiouſly offering us peace, will be the means of enabling us to ſee through and avoid the ſnare they had laid for us.

The Preſident of the United States has recommended Wedneſday, the 24th of April, to be obſerved as a day of faſting, humiliation and prayer.

The Retaliation, we learn, has been rendered up, to the French officer, who came here in her.

The French priſoners at Lancaſter, it is ſaid, are to be ſent out to the Weſt-Indies in the Retaliation.

Extract of a letter from an officer of the Ganges, dated Norfolk, February 21.

"An officer of the Surpriſe, an Engliſh frigate of 44 guns, boarded us off Cape Nichola Mole, and demanded all the Engliſhmen on board, alſo to examine the protections of the American ſeamen. Captain Tingey's anſwer was manly and noble. 'A public ſhip carries no protection but her flag. I do not expect to ſucceed in a conteſt with you; but I will die at my quarters before a man ſhall be taken from the ſhip.' The crew gave him three cheers, ran to quarters, and called for Yankee Doodle. The Surpriſe upon hearing our determination, choſe rather to leave us than to fight for dead men!"

MR. FENNO,

I OBSERVE you have adverti ſed the ſermon of the Preſident of the College of New-Jerſey to be ſold, by Mr. Ormrod. The Preſident has ſold the copyright to the printer, but the ſale of the diſcourſes ought to depend upon their intrinſic merit, and not on the perſon to whom the profits are to accrue. Permit me through your paper to put the public in poſſeſſion of a ſhort ſample of their ſtyle and manner of execution.

A. B.

The Sermon on the Dangers of Pleaſure is concluded in the following manner.

"The whole object of the preſent diſcourſe is to teach us caution and moderation in indulging the pleaſures of ſenſe. Univerſally criminal they are not—On this ſubject the Creator has indicated his will by the powers of enjoyment with which we are endued, and the objects, evidently deſigned to gratify them, with which we are ſurrounded. But, liable to great abuſe through the infirmity and corruption of human nature, they require to be reſtrained by a firm and conſtant rein. There is a moderate bound within which they are lawful. Chearfulneſs is a virtue—though levity is a vice—amuſement, enjoyed as a relaxation from the grave and important duties of life, is to be allowed—diſſipation, as an enemy to all good principle, is to be condemned. Temperate pleaſures may be rendered favorable not only to the enjoyments, but the duties of life—inordinate indulgence leads to the proſtration of every generous and noble affection of the heart. The bleſſings of providence, taſted with moderation and received with thankfulneſs, ſerve to ſtrengthen the principles of piety—abuſed to intemperance, they corrupt, and, at length, deſtroy both body and ſoul.

Life is a ſerious thing. It is the commencement of an endleſs being. It is the only period of our probation for immortality. Every action here is impreſſing ſome character upon our deſtiny. And the whole ſeries of our conduct in time is to form the ſubject of one vaſt reckoning at the bar of God. Although the cheerfulneſs of conſcious innocence, and the ſerenity of pious hope become a good man, levity is unſuitable to his ſtate. And frequent entrance into light and thoughtleſs ſcenes of the houſe of feaſting even in youth, is unworthy a rational and immortal being who is encompaſſed with ſuch ſerious proſpects, and has duties of ſuch high importance to fulfil. With reſerve, therefore, indulge pleaſure. Never ſacrifice to it one duty either to God, or to man. Preſerve, in your lawful amuſements a ſober and collected mind, habitually attentive to the great deſtinations of life. Chaſten your joy, knowing that, for every idle word, and for every idle thought, you muſt render an account. Remember the preſence of God, and join trembling with your mirth. Look forward to that period, not far remote, when the ſun, the moon, and the ſtars ſhall no longer ſhine on your tabernacle—when the ſilver cord of life ſhall be looſed, and the golden bowl ſhall be broken, when the frail pitcher ſhall be broken at the fountain, and the wheel broken at the ciſtern—then ſhall the duſt return to the earth as it was, and the ſpirit ſhall return to God who gave it." Meditations on death do not diſturb the innocent, they alarm only the guilty conſcience—they do not cover life with gloom, as the licentious imagine, and deſtroy its pleaſures—they only render pleaſure temperate and wiſe. Frequently enter into the houſe of mourning—and, always, when it comes in competition with the houſe of feaſting, give the preference to this ſchool of humanity and ſerioufneſs—for it is the end of all men, and the living will lay it to his heart. Theſe ſeaſons of tender and virtuous grief may nouriſh pious reflections, and bring to maturity the hopes and diſpoſitions of heaven, that would have decayed and periſhed amidſt the ardent and barren pleaſures of ſenſe. Happy they, who, by the ſadneſs of the countenance have the heart made better—who are taught by the afflictions that are in the world to look far above its tranſitory and unſatisfying joys, to the eternal habitations of the juſt and the throne of the living God, in whoſe preſence is fulneſs of joy, and at whoſe right hand are pleaſures for ever more.

* Eccles. 12.—This is a fine collection of images in the eaſtern ſtile to expreſs the period of life. The thread of life is a familiar image in the poetry of all nations, which is here repreſented as a ſilver cord for its preciouſneſs and delicacy. The only part of the imagery which will be obſcure to an American or European reader is the following—when the pitcher ſhall be broken at the fountain, and the wheel ſhall be broken at the ciſtern. In the ſouth of Aſia and in Egypt, where there were few ſtreams, water, ſo neceſſary for the uſes and ſuſtenance of life, was ſought for in wells, or collected in ciſterns. From hence it was drawn in pitchers or other ſimilar veſſels, by young maidens, or the daughters of the family for domeſtic uſes; or, it was raiſed by a wheel, and diſtributed into the troughs and reſervois at which the herds came to drink—When the pitcher, that had ſo often gone and returned ſafe, was at laſt broken at the fountain—when the wheel, that raiſed the flood from the ciſtern, and threw it along the channels prepared for the cattle was deſtroyed, the waters were no longer collected; theſe refreſhing ſtreams, ſo neceſſary to the comfort and ſuſtenance of nature, ceaſed to flow. Theſe circumſtances are employed as figures, ſimple but beautiful, to expreſs the rupture of that frail veſſel that contains the fountain of life; or the ceſſation of the action of the heart that throws its precious ſtreams along the channels of the veins. Thoſe who conſult the commentators on this paſſage, will find, in the greater part of them, many inſipid and ridiculous criticiſms, as if the ſacred writer, inſtead of employing a beautiful poetical image, intended to give us a pedantic and enigmatical ſyſtem of anatomy.

TO THE

Promoters of Literature.

THE managers of the Beula Seminary, impelled by motives of pure morality, having resolved to dispose of the following property by way of LOTTERY, in order to assist them in erecting a convenient building for the accommodation of one hundred students, and the necessary professors in the different departments of science—do offer for sale three hundred and fifty lots in BEULA, each fifty-eight feet by one hundred and twenty-five, at twenty dollars per ticket, each ticket entitled to a lot to be determined by ballot: ten dollars to be paid on receipt of the ticket, and the remaining ten on the delivery of the deed. The ballot to take place before impartial men, as soon as the whole number of tickets are sold.

The managers, anticipating the difficulty of obtaining cash for the whole, have resolved to receive an equivalent, for some of the lots, in select books; philosophical apparatus, or in produce and materials for building, delivered on the spot.

It may be observed, that the value of prizes in this lottery will be more than double the amount of all the tickets; for 350 lots, would at their average estimation, produce at least 15,750 dollars; whilst, according to the present proposals, the sum obtained for them will be only 7,000 dollars.

Tickets may be had during this winter, of Morgan J. Rhees, president of the board of managers, no. 177, south Second-street, Philadelphia; who will receive proposals and plans for the erection of the building. It is intended to be of brick or stone; its situation on the summit of a gradual rising eminence, commanding an extensive prospect of the surrounding country; an observatory to be on its top.

Land and out lots in the vicinity of the Town may be had on moderate terms by applying as above. Mechanics and laborers, of good morals will meet with encouragement.
